HERBERT N. FELL,

GENERAL AGENT.

837 Market Street,

Wilmington, Del.

WAREHOUSE DESTROYED

Fire Saturday night destroyed the large freight warehouse, coal sheds and lime and cement storehouses of the Charles Warner Company along the Christina river front from Market to King streets, Wilmington, causing damage that may approximate $100,000. The buildings were insured and there was insurance on some of the freight.

Heavy rain and the wind in a favorable direction probably saved the establishments along the river for some distance from destruction. For a time the offices and stables of the Warner Company were threatened but the wind blew from a northeasterly direction carrying the flames out toward the river. This condition most likely saved from destruction the B. & O. freight house and the bridegroom's house at the north end of Market street bridge. Though it was late in the night thousands of people assembled to watch the progress of the fire.

At 11:08 o'clock Patrolman "Chris" Shields, who was standing at Front and King streets, saw a cloud of smoke shoot from the King street side of the storage house, near the boiler room. He ran to the Market street office of the firm and sounded an alarm from box No. 41, and the first four fire companies in a few minutes were galloping toward the scene of the blaze.

In an incredibly short time the buildings in the east yard were a mass of roaring flames, the light from which brilliantly illuminated the heavens and made objects plainly visible for a great distance around. A second alarm was turned in a few minutes following the first, to which the remainder of the companies responded.

By the time they had reached the scene, however, it was evident that the freight buildings, which were filled with highly inflammable material, could not be saved.

INDICT JOHN LYNN

Eleven indictments were returned by the grand jury Friday against John Lynn, president of the Levy Court, and one true bill was found against Harry M. White, a former member of the Levy Court, on information furnished to the jurors by Attorney General Ward, as a result of his investigation of transactions of the Levy Court. President Lynn had been arrested on a charge of stealing $56, and of obtaining $380 under false pretences from the county. Ten of the true bills returned by the jury set forth that he obtained by false pretences, the sum of $2,865.75 from the county treasury. The eleventh indictment is that on a charge of the larceny of $56, and the true bill against White alleges that he stole $54.75 from the county. All of the offenses set forth are alleged to have occurred in 1899 and 1900, when Lynn and White were members of the Levy Court that went out of existence on January 1 last. After returning these bills, the jurors were discharged from any further attendance until December 9, and this is significantly regarded as an indication that Attorney General Ward may cause other arrests before that time on information he has obtained during his investigation, or may present information to the jury and ask for true bills against certain persons who have not been taken into custody as yet.

BOGGS MAY BE TRANSFERRED

It would be a general joy on the nerves of Delawareans should William N. Boggs become connected with the New Castle County workhouse.
William N. Boggs, now serving a five years' sentence in the New Jersey penitentiary at Trenton, N. J., is considered to be in good luck. He has made a model prisoner and unlike Thomas S. Clark, will have one year, with the exception of twenty days, off his term of imprisonment.

Soon after his incarceration the New York firm that has the prisoners engaged in the manufacture of clothing secured Boggs' services. He has given entire satisfaction to the firm on account of being an A1 bookkeeper and has been able to send a neat sum-home every month to his wife and children.

So pleased has been the firm with Boggs that an effort will be made to have him transferred to the New Castle county workhouse.

The same firm of New York manufactures has installed a number of sewing machines at the new workhouse and the long term prisoners will be put at work making pants during the coming week.
The firm would like to have Boggs in charge of the work because he has had the experience and it must have a book-keeper here.

TRYING TO UNRAVEL MYSTERY

The identity of a handsome two-month old white child found buried in a field on the farm of John and Lewis Seamen near Felton, is puzzling the people of that community and the State officials as well. To add to the mystery the body disappeared a few days after it was discovered and the efforts of the authorities to locate it has been in vain. The surrounding country has been searched thoroughly. However, there are several clues yet to be run down. Some of them may solve the mystery. Everything surrounding the case points to a murder with the principals people of wealth and refinement.

It is over a week since the crime was discovered but delay on the part of some of the down-State officials has kept the case from being investigated sooner. The body was found by the Seamans as they were cutting wood in an old peach orchard.

LYNN GETS A CONTINUANCE

General Sessions' Court Monday morning continued trial of the cases against John Lynn, until after December 18th, at which time the civil business of Superior Court will be disposed of.

In requesting a continuance, Levi C. Bird said the accusations against Mr. Lynn were such as to demand considerable consideration by him before going into court. "We are ready to give any amount of bail, and will be ready to try these cases at this term of court."

Mr. Ward said that the State was ready for trial, and would like to begin as soon as possible. "Trial of these cases will take some time," he said, "and we will have enough criminal work to last this week, and unless the court will extend the hearing of the civil business for another week, it would be better to have these cases go over. We will agree to this if the defense will content to every motion before the grand jury comes back on December 9th, especially the motion for a charge of venue if they should decide to make one."

"We will agree to that," said Mr. Bird. "We cannot get our witnesses, however."

"Suppose some witness should be entreated to go out of the State?" said Mr. Bird.

Mr. Ward—"I shall not entreat any of them to go out of the State."

"I did not say you would," said Mr. Bird, "but there are others interested in this case besides you. If any of our witnesses are not here we will not try the case, as no lawyer could do justice to a client under such circumstances. We cannot make any such agreement."

EAGLE ATTACKS BOY

William Holland, a young lad employed by Oliver Horton, a half mile from Bridgeville, was badly hurt on Saturday by an eagle.

Holland was at an old berry shanty repairing some crates with a hatchet, when without a moment's notice, the huge eagle alighted upon him. One talon struck the boy about the neck while the other penetrated his shoulder. He was spellbound for a moment, then a fierce combat ensued. Recognizing his position, he dealt the bird a stunning blow with his hatchet, which broke its hold and one of its legs.

Holland squeezed himself between the boards of the open shanty after the eagle had been knocked loose. The fierce bird again came at him and attempted to pull the lad from behind the boards. Finding it a useless task, and after keeping him corralled for over an hour, it flew away.

Holland was nearly froze, and bleeding from the wounds, made his way to his home and revealed what had happened. He was badly frightened as well as seriously lacerated.

CANNED GOODS MAY BE HIGH

Indications are that the prices of all lines of canned goods will be high during the winter, especially tomatoes. Canned tomatoes have advanced steadily from the beginning of the season and will probably go higher. During the past week values have advanced 10 cents a dozen for three pound standards, prices now being $1.10 a dozen. Tomatoes in gallons have advanced from $2.75 to $3 a dozen during the week. The price of three pound standards has advanced about 25 cents a dozen during the past two months and from 40 to 45 cents a dozen since the opening of the season. The cause for the strength of this line of canned goods is the light stock on hand, owing to the small crop and light pack.

Fire Protection for Delmar

Residents of Delmar are agitating the question of having a fire engine. A meeting was held in the Opera House recently for the purpose of hearing the sentiments of the property owners. An agent of the Howe Engine Company, of Indianapolis, Ind., was before the meeting, pressing his claims for their patronage. His figures for the engine are $850. The town will be canvassed to secure the required amount. The Town Council on the Delaware side has passed an ordinance requiring all persons rebuilding in the burned district to use some kind of metal for roofing.

All was Well in Sussex

One of the benefits of the telephone was demonstrated recently in a novel but ingenious manner. While a young married man of Georgetown was spending a few days in Philadelphia recently his wife presented him with a bouncing and beautiful baby girl. The father being anxious to hear from home called up his house by telephone and the nurse held the youngster up to the phone when it gave forth a couple of lusty yells. He hung up the receiver satisfied that things in Sussex were prosperous.—Ex.

Open Pen Knife in Hog's Stomach.

When Farmer Caleb Willson, of near Bridgeville, opened one of his large hogs while butchering recently he found a pen knife in the hog's stomach. The large blade was opened, and how the animal managed to live with the open knife inside is a mystery.

A GOOD YEAR FOR FARMERS

It will be news to many, perhaps, that the present has been a good year for the farmer—one of the best, indeed, in the history of the country, says the Baltimore News. The surprise is the greater when the severe drought of last summer is recalled, and the wide savings on that account. That well-known authority, the Orange Judd Farmer, in a recent issue, shows why, in spite of some shortcomings and failures, the year has been, from an agricultural point of view, an extraordinary one. There was, indeed, a shortage in the corn crop, which caused loss to many farmers; but there was compensation in the large crop of wheat. There was also a smaller crop than usual of potatoes but here good fortune comes in the guise of ill, for this never-failing accompaniment of the American dinner brought large prices. The wheat crop brought $150,000,000 more than the crop of the preceding year, and the total value of farm products was greater by $400,000,000 than that of 1900. The Orange Judd Farmer gives further interesting figures confirming these conditions. Going back to 1896, it shows that nine staple crops in the United States are worth $700,000,000 more than they were at that time. A comparison is also made between the output of the last five years and that of the preceding term of the same length. The gain to the cotton growers is $400,000,000, and the increase in the exports of agricultural products nearly the same amount. The gain in cereals—wheat, corn, oats, barley and rye—about $1,000,000,000 over that of those products in the five preceding years. The farmer's gain of the increase of circulated money is $2 per cent. in five years, his proportion now being $28 per capita. Everything relating to him and his pursuit in his social existence shows advancement. Life on the farm was never so comfortable and pleasant as well as prosperous.

A PADDED BOX FOR BABY

At the first approach of cold weather baby will be relegated to the high chair and his coach during his playtime for fear of cold from drafts when sitting on the floor. Baby does not like the change either; he is decidedly cramped and uncomfortable in such small spaces after the summer freedom on the floor. Some thing roomy, in which the little one can move about, and yet be free from the drafts of air sweeping beneath the doors, is of especial comfort both to the mother and the baby, and nothing supplies this need more effectively than the padded box. Take a large dry goods box, with sides just high enough for baby to take hold of while standing. Pad the box carefully with a brightly-colored quilt and it is ready for use either in the house on cool days or out on the lawn or in the open air. Here baby is free to stray, to learn to creep, to toddle, to walk, and when tired of that, to sit and play with his toys and play with them in the bottom of the box, and scatter them about to his heart's content, and yet always have them within reach; and while baby is safe and happy in this attractive little home of his own the mother may have many quiet hours.

Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

Evening Journal Sold

At sheriff's sale on Saturday the Evening Journal newspaper plant was sold to Francis M. Walker for $5,500. This was a very low price, and is accounted for by the fact that some of the most valuable machinery belonged personally to George A. Elliott, president of the Journal Printing Co., and by the further fact that the sale was arranged among the stockholders.

BY INA BREVOORT ROBERTS.

The James Lawtons, though eminently respectable, and well thought of by everybody, were not "in society." They had, in fact, always professed themselves as not desiring to be, but when Mrs. Joseph Lawton announced the engagement of her daughter Gertrude to one of the brightest social lights of the town, Mrs. James Lawton at once decided in her secret heart that the wedding would be an auspicious occasion for Lucilla to make her debut in Riverside society.

The wedding day approached.

the floor they found this under it. When went to mail those invitations the post office was closed, so I slipped them through the slot in the door. There was the tiniest crack between the sill and the door and this envelope slipped through that space and lay on a beam."

As he finished speaking Tom handed the invitation to his aunt. "It's a little late," he said, but "better late than never."

"Mary," cried Mrs. Lawton, "can you ever forgive me for saying your word?"

"I don't care," he answered, and turned the other.
